2nd Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year "B"
"Speak Lord, your servant is listening"

I wish you and your loved ones a blessed and prosperous New Year. I may not promise to get you to realize whatever your ambitions or prospective long term goals for this year may be. I am pretty sure that reading this reflection may not get you there but it certainly will help to challenge and re-orient your life to a higher purpose. Like Jesus, my invitation to you is to "Come and See" ..., and like Samuel I'd certainly expect your answer will be "Here I am Lord ... Speak Lord for your servant is listening."

If like me you have struggled to live the Christian life, you would agree with me that following Jesus is not an easy project to embark upon. Christian life as I have come to see it is more about the formation of human conscience. A well-formed conscience is not immune from the ups and downs of life, but it does empower the human mind to go beyond the ordinary – to establish a profound relationship with divine and transcendental values. The evidence of a well-formed conscience is seen in one's ability to make the right choices - Choices that reflect the will of God in one's life and in the life of others.

The key to a successful year is letting our conscience be our guide - A well-formed conscience is a beauty to behold. In moments of confusion a well-formed conscience is guided by the principle of "If Jesus were here what will He do?" Such a conscience that endeavors to do the will of God at all times is pleasing both to God and to others. In moments of uncertainty, a well-formed conscience will always make a profound effort to make the choices that enhance and promote the Good, Beauty, Truth, Love, Justice, Care, Compassion, Excellence and the integrity of all sentient beings.

In this quest for excellence, we see what Christian life is all about. Christian life is not an exercise of momentary goodness – "Lord, I have been good for 9 days, now you have to reward me" or "Lord, I have completed the 2000 Hail Marys, now I have to win the super lotto." Christian life is a culture. It is a way of life that is lived out of love and not out of coercion. Like Samuel, Andrew and Simon Peter, Christian life is a call to see, love and behold the goodness of God in Jesus, the Christ (the incarnation of God).

The Christian culture transcends space and time. Christians worship divine and eternal values, and embarking on such a project demands an openness of the human mind to the realm of the boundless good that is immanent in everything that exists. It challenges the human mind in its limited nature to open up to the sphere of the unknown, the other, the realm of nothingness where all reality unites as one.

To arrive at this level of mental and spiritual development, our readings emphasize on the need for spiritual guidance - The hand of God was upon Samuel right from the moment of his conception in the womb of Hannah his mother. Samuel literally grew up in the presence of God, serving the priest Eli at the Lord's sanctuary in Shiloh. Having been raised by a priest and having been well educated in the Sacred Scriptures, he still needed the guidance of a man of God in order to recognize the voice of God, an experience that would change his life forever.

Embarking on the journey of emancipation and spiritual liberation, the first apostles – Andrew, Simon, James and John needed the guidance of John the Baptist in order to recognize Jesus as the "Lamb of God."

It is significant to note that John was the son of a priest, Zachariah, who participated in the daily sacrifice of a lamb in the temple for the sins of the people (Exodus 29).

John understands well the power of the blood of the Passover Lamb (Exodus 12) which delivered the Israelites in Egypt from sin and death. By calling Jesus the Lamb of God, John sees in the blood of Jesus, the true Passover Lamb (1 Cor. 5:7), the ultimate sacrifice that will deliver the world from everlasting sin, death and eternal destruction.

The apostles were not completely ignorant of this idea but their expectation of the fulfillment of prophecy was not enough to lead them to this truth. It was not until the man of God – John the Baptist made this prophetic pronouncement that the apostles were able to know the truth that will forever give a sense of meaning and direction to their lives.

Human beings are instinctively curious in nature. When it comes to the realization of our vocations in life (ambitions and long-term goals), we would like God to speak to us in voices that are distinct and clear – voices that are unmistakable and could easily be recognized; yet, our experience of God's interaction with human beings in history reveals that God normally works through ordinary things of life thus reminding us that nothing should be neglected or taken for granted in our effort to realize our vocation in life.

Like Samuel and the apostles, we have all been given a divine assignment by God and just like Samuel and the apostles who could not recognize what divine providence has in store for them until their spiritual masters pointed it out to them, we do need spiritual directors and spiritual masters in our spiritual journeys to help us discern what God is saying to us in our lives as individuals, family, group or the church.

The practice of spiritual direction should never be considered a thing of the past. We may live in a world which emphasizes on the power of the individual to discern his/her own life, yet, we do know that seeking for spiritual guidance does not in any way diminish the value of personal choice and personal responsibility because ultimately coming to develop a relationship with God is a choice that no one can make for you. It is a choice you must make for yourself.

Jesus echoes this fact in His question to the apostles "What are you looking for?" John the Baptist may point out the Lamb of God to the apostles; yet, getting to know and to follow Jesus remains a fundamental option the apostles must make for themselves, hence the apostles' question "Master, ... where are you staying?"

Jesus, where do you live so that we can see for ourselves? Jesus said to them "come and see." Jesus neither gave the apostles an address for their GPS nor did He describe the direction to His residence to the apostles. He took them with Him to have a personal experience which will change their lives forever.

Christian life is a day by day journey with Jesus. It is a journey of self-discovery. Since no one can see his or her back without the help of a mirror or the testimony of another, we need all the spiritual support we can get in order to discern the plan of God for our lives. When it comes to the development of spiritual life and the formation of human conscience, we ought to understand that Christian life is not a Do-it-Yourself enterprise. We all need the support and assistance of people who are in sync with the Spirit of God to help us discern our mission on earth.

May it be well with us as we embark on our spiritual journey of self-discovery in this New Year.

CORDERO DE DIOS

“Este es el Cordero de Dios”. Escuchamos esta frase todos los domingos en la Misa pero es muy probable que muchos católicos no sepan quién la pronunció originariamente en la Biblia. La frase aparece en el Evangelio de Juan, en los labios de Juan Bautista a quien dice dos veces. En la lectura del Evangelio de hoy, Juan proclama que Jesús es el Cordero de Dios y entonces dos de los discípulos de Juan siguen a Cristo. Un poco más tarde Andrés, quien escuchó a Juan y siguió a Jesús, lleva a su hermano Simón para que reciba un nuevo nombre: Kefás, es decir Pedro. Si estudiamos a fondo estos versículos de la Biblia vemos la misión de todos los bautizados en el Cuerpo de Cristo: Siempre debemos proclamar nuestra fe en Cristo, para que otros lo sigan. Quizás no sepamos de qué manera la voluntad de Dios obrará en los que llevamos a Cristo, pero eso no es lo importante. Lo que importa es que nuestra misión constante como Iglesia es llevar a otras personas a Cristo, el Cordero de Dios, que quita el pecado del mundo.

¿Sabía Usted?

La negligencia es una forma de maltrato infantil caracterizada por la falta de satisfacción de las necesidades básicas de alimentación, vivienda, vestimenta, atención médica, educación, entre otros, de un niño. Esté atento a los signos de abandono en los niños que ve a diario porque si no se satisfacen estas necesidades, un niño está sufriendo física y emocionalmente. Algunos signos de negligencia incluyen desnutrición, falta de higiene y atención médica insuficiente.
